

Sports Journal-October/04

Coming from a woman's prospective I often wonder how we could utilize all the spit coming from the players during a game. It definitely was a great game-history-Wow! Getting back to the spit-could we bottle it up and sell it? How about different bottles for different players within a group? Red Sox right on the front featuring that special player. Remember the pet rock? Heck another idea would be selling it to companies whose focus is shampoo/conditioner. Save our precious water by replacing it with spit. I could continue.....

My take on the long locks? If the hair is clean and not stringy many men look great-I love it! Many women would love to get their hands into a thick head of hair such as Johnny Damon's. As much as I like the Yanni look some should never go there, although I feel differently when it comes to goatees. Through my eyes a goatee enhances any man's look. Amen.

Oakland A's pitcher Barry Zito, now he's a cutie plus he is dating Alyssa Milano. I have heard the two have political differences; she is more liberal. Good luck to them as a little diversity is a positive thing.

Is Derek Jeter really interested in Marc Anthony's ex girl Dayanara Torres? They say he has been for a while. Let's see if the fire erupts when they host a charity event together in Puerto Rico.

Pat Tillman ,the former NFL player hopefully will not be forgotten. I believe whether we are for the war or not we All support our troops. His desire and courage to go was his destiny; my heart goes out to his family. When we watch any game let us take in the joy of it, not only for ourselves but also for those who will never have the opportunity again.

Deborah Beauvais is a dating/relationship consultant and the owner of Empowered Connections, a personalized matchmaking service. Tune in to her talk show "Love By Intuition" on WARL1320AM every Wednesday 4:00-6:00pm. You can reach her at empoweredconnections@yahoo.com with questions or for more information.